The convention is to be held in June. After the business meeting a social time playing cards was enjoyed.

Old Time Concert Success—Singing the old time favorites, modest youths in frock coats, silk hats, and high collars, and quaint lassies in demure in hooped skirts and bouffant of alabaster, awakened memories long ago and delighted a large audience last evening at the M. E. church in an old time concert. Every detail of the fashion of 1880 was carried out, the men affecting side burns and the women curls which hung coily on the neck. Many wedding gowns and frock hidden away in the attic were brought forth made fresh by a fish of lace caught with a rare old cameo. The village choir appeared in uniform in peaked bonnets, lace mitts and shawls.

Miss Estacia Nott, the announcer, wore a tan basque dress with a light skirt and puffed sleeves. She introduced each number in the style of olden days. A tableau, "The Seven Ages of Man," was simple, but effective, the following characters being: Babyhood, Dorothy Elizabeth Evans, five months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hansen, Childhood, Arnold Austin, Youth, Harold Courter, Prime of Life, Hugh Conway, Middle Age, J. E. Lee, Old Age, Paul Ellinger. Second, "The Village of the Future," Mrs. Robert Meek.

After a selection by the orchestra Amy Baum sang a greeting song, curtaining at the close of every song. The male quartet composed of Alfred Olson, E. E. Van Pool, Dr. F. B. Lofthorpe and Dr. S. P. Richards sang "When You and I Were Young." Later in the program they sang "Bendemeer's Stream." "Cousin Jedidiah" sung by the village choir and "Little Brown Bird" in the "Wildwood" were the most popular numbers of the evening. Those who made up the choir were A. Williams, George Austin, William Scott, Charles Collett and Perry Van Pool. Mesdames F. Woodstock, John R. Nichols, George A. Jacobs, and J. E. Lee. Vocal solos were sung by Dr. Richards and Mrs. Woodstock.

A violin solo was given by Boyd Hill. Mrs. Mary Clithero gave a piano recitation of old time songs several of the spirited airs of the Civil war being among them.

A vocal solo was given by Mrs. S. P. Richards and a vocal duet by Mrs. Nichols and Miss Florence Snyder. A humorous essay of the inventions which were modern in 1880 was read by Miss Cora Williams. Accompaniments for the singing were played by Mrs. F. T. Richards, Miss Dorothy Brigham and Mrs. Charles Collett. John Matheson and John Sheldon were awarded prizes in the W. C. T. U. essay contest by Mrs. C. E. Ewing.

A silver offering was taken up which netted nearly $50 to the Y. W. F. M. S. This is the third entertainment which the young women have given this month. Miss Luella Lake in charge of Group 3, planned the old time concert.

Village School At D. of I.—A village school in session with the pupils speaking places and singing was the entertainment offered last evening by the Daughters of Isabella at their mixer held in the K. C. hall. Miss Theresa Baker conducted the school. Miss Betty Gower gave a reading "In 1492." Miss Barbara Schlatter gave a piano solo, and a roundelay was sung by Misses Hazel and Betty Gower and Margaret Gately. Mrs. J. J. Cunningham was awarded the prize in the spelling match. Mrs. Eugene Roseling was also a prize winner.

After recess the pupils were served a lunch put up in dinner pails. The committee in charge included Misses Emma and Elizabeth Broderick, Margaret Gately, Mayme Gosselin, Betty and Hazel Gower.

PONTIAC PLAN OF
HOME CONSTRUCTION
FINDING FAVOR HERE

That many here are already following the Pontiac plan of building evidenced by the number of permits of this nature issued this week by the building inspector, Francis J. Charles, H. Burdick have secured permits to erect two small dwellings, or cottages, at 312-213 Oak Hill avenue.

Other permits of the same nature have been granted to Frank E. Swan, 1424 cottage, 319 North Walnut street, and John J. McGrane, 1624 cottage and garage, 112 North Oak Hill avenue.

J. P. Cullen & Son, contractors, have secured a permit to build a large tool and equipment warehouse at the northeast corner of the intersection of South Main street and Eastern avenue, several hundred yards west of the Rock County Sugar company's plant. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000, it is estimated. It will be of frame construction, one story, all-shed, of approximate dimensions 30x215. Building operations have been started.

Permit for the erection of a $4,000 six-room frame dwelling, 30x40, at 408 South Academy street, has been issued to George W. Smith. A restaurant, 12x23, will be built at 978 McKee boulevard by B. J. Gower, according to another permit issued.

Miscellaneous permits have been issued as follows: To wreck barn and build garage, Arthur Ward, 801 Y. Kerch, 112 North Pearl; remodeling, Hal Reitenburg, 1308 West Bluff; shed, Herman Krenart, 24 Locust; remodeling barn and remodeling, Joseph Knipschield, 1511 Racine. Mr. Blair cautions contractors and others who contemplate erection of buildings to secure permits before construction is started. To wait until the building is started, half finished, or completed, before applying for a permit is a direct violation of the ordinance, he states.

WATER IN CHEESE
REGULATED BY LAW
STATE COURT RULES

Madison, May 20.—The Wisconsin law which limits the amount of water to be incorporated in American cheese was recently upheld by the state supreme court when it affirmed judgment against H. M. Scott on his appeal from the decision of the circuit court for Sheboygan county. This decision is of great importance to the cheese industry of Wisconsin and to the consumer of cheese as well because it definitely fixes the authority of the dairy and food commissioner to stop the sale and offering for sale or exchange of American cheese containing more than 40 percent of water. Judge A. J. Vinke of the supreme court, who wrote the decision, points out that it is not necessary to prove an intent to defraud in bringing an action under this law. He says: "So far as a manufacturer who puts into the channels of trade cheese with excess moisture is concerned, the question of intent, except that of manufacture for sale or exchange, is involved. Since the defendant was a manufacturer of cheese for sale and since he admitted an excess of moisture in the cheese when it was sent from the factory into the channels of trade, no intent to violate the law need be proven to establish his liability."

"This decision of the court," said Dairy and Food Commissioner George J. Weigle today, "will enable us to proceed with the enforcement of the cheese moisture law in a vigorous manner. This is one of the best laws passed in recent years for safeguarding Wisconsin's high reputation in the manufacture of quality cheese."

REDS MEET SUCCESS
IN DRIVE ON POLES

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) London, May 20.—The offensive began last Friday by the bolsheviks against the Poles along a 50 mile line on the northern front was continuing successfully up to Wednesday, according to official statement from the soviet government received from Moscow. The Polish retreat was continuing and was panicky at some points, the statement declared. The bolsheviks report their advance in the Cherkassy region along the Dnieper to the south of Kiev to be continuing, but state that there is no change in the situation in the region of Kiev itself.

News Notes From Movieland
—BY DAISY DEAN—

According to the question and answer columns and movie fan mail, Jack Mulhall is the newest screen idol. Jack, however, has been rather elusive and no matter how we tried we never seemed to be able to get a portrait of him, but some of our friends out Metro way took pity on us girls the other day and sent me this one. I pass it on to you for your scrap books.

Jack Mulhall.

Jack is Metro's popular young leading man who will shortly make his appearance in the production of "The Hope," the pictureization of the famous Drury Lane melodrama. Mr. Mulhall did some notable work recently as leading man for Alice Lake in the picture, "Should a Woman Tell?"

AMBITION
Ninety-four pounds is the exact weight of Gloria Hope. She is drinking nine glasses of malted milk daily in hope of achieving her ambition, which is to weigh 100.

ONLY TWO

PUBLIC PAID $30 PER
TO MAKE RICH RICHER

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Washington, May 20.—Prices of basic iron and steel products have increased 50 percent since 1914 according to W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist of the railroad unions. In a brief field with the railroad labor board and made public here Mr. Lauck estimated the profits of the larger steel companies during the war at $750,000,000 "or a levy of $30 on every American family."

The brief declared that the per ton profit of the United States Steel corporation increased from $4.59 prior to the war, to $14.31 in the period 1916-18. Labor costs increased only 41 percent in the same period, Mr. Lauck asserted.

Fond du Lac.—Taking the stand in a $10,000 slander suit brought by him against Frank Gruet, the Rev. C. C. Gerlach, pastor of the Lutheran church at Rosendale, denied statements of witnesses for the defense that he and Miss Granger, telephone operator, had visited alone in the church. He admitted that he had often visited the girl and had talked with her in the presence of other people and had taken her automobile riding when there were others in the party.

LENROOT IN LINE
AS A DARK HORSE

Milwaukee, May 20.—On the eve of the Republican convention comes renewed activity in behalf of the dark horse candidacy of Senator J. L. Lenroot for the presidency. In the past, this movement is promoted by the New York Lenroot club. In Wisconsin, owing to the absence of any openly organized support, its sources are not so clear, but recent developments indicate that the dark horse possibilities of Lenroot are being fostered in the state. Some indications are that the same forces which are working to advance Senator Lenroot are busy shelving Gov. Philipp. Concerning this angle of the situation Gov. Philipp said:

"I assume that there is a Lenroot-Wilcox combination in the state. I don't know whether Lenroot is to pull Wilcox out, or Wilcox is to pull Lenroot out—you can use your own judgment."

Lenroot-Wilcox Combination.
The prospect of a Lenroot-Wilcox combination provides an interesting field of speculation to political observers. Senator Lenroot and Mr. Wilcox are very friendly, though it is not known that to this time they have co-operated politically. They have many warm mutual friends. One development causing the governor to give utterance to this remark is the character of the most recent drive in behalf of the Lenroot candidacy.

NEW LENROOT DRIVE

The New York Lenroot club has opened a brand new drive for its Wisconsin candidate. This drive is literary in nature consisting of widely mailed letters enclosing reprints of all the eastern correspondents have said about the ascendancy of Senator Lenroot the offer of Gov. Philipp and announcing that though Senator Lenroot is not a candidate his name will be presented to the convention.

John Callan O'Laughlin writing in the Washington Post declared that while Mr. Lenroot can count on only three delegates from Wisconsin there are others who would swing to him if his chances became brighter. Senator La Follette according to O'Laughlin would find a revolution on his hands if he stood in Senator Lenroot's way.

MARSHALL ADDRESSES
INDIANA DEMOCRATS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Indianapolis, Ind., May 20.—"Betal and exact justice to all men," as a remedy for unrest was prescribed by Vice President Marshall in his keynote address today before the state democratic convention. He urged full sentences for profiteers and increased production to relieve the high cost of living.

Any let up in the enforcement of national prohibition until legal change has been made in its provisions was opposed by Mr. Marshall. The vice president assailed the republicans for their work during the last year, declaring it has "laid its hand on nothing and has thought of nothing save a proposal to prevent during an unprecedented scarcity of manufactured products the dumping of foreign made goods on our markets."

"Let us not delude ourselves into the belief that the currency and credit of this country can double, the population increase and the production remain at a standstill and yet that the high cost of living may be reduced and peace, plenty and prosperity abound in the land. Let us begin talking about the profiteer and begin jailing him. And let the man who works understand that in greater production he benefits himself as well as his fellow men."

Waterbury.—A prophetic Bible conference for members of the Moravian church who reside in this part of Wisconsin, will be held at the church of that denomination in this city May 25, 26, 27, and 28.

WATER DEPT. READY TO MEET ALL CALLS

Authority Granted to Mortgage Up to $500,000 During Next Four Years.

Through permission just granted by the state railroad commission, at the request of city officials, the water plant is now fully prepared to meet the expected heavy demands for extensions and improvements which will be made upon it during the next four years. Authority has been granted to issue third mortgage certificates, in the limit of $500,000 up to August, 1924.

It is expressly stipulated in the order that certificates may be issued only as money is needed. City Attorney Roger G. Cunningham states. Officials explain that while it may not be necessary to expend more than half of the possible amount during the next four years, they have adopted a "preparedness" policy which will prevent delays when money is needed.

Officials Before Commission. Mayor Welsh, City Engineer C. V. Kersch and city attorney appeared before the railroad commission Tuesday to advance the petition. It was granted although it has not yet been signed by all members of the commission. Assurance is given that it will be.

Mr. Cunningham gave a full explanation of the move today, after the commission was alerted at the $500,000 limit mentioned, as this does not necessarily mean certificates will be issued up to this amount. He said:

City Attorney Explains. "The total indebtedness of the city water plant today is $261,500. This was made up of a first mortgage of $186,500 which was on the plant when taken over by the city several years ago; and a second mortgage of $75,000, certificates of which were sold in August, 1919, to help pay for the $110,000 worth of extensions and improvements made last year. These are due in August, 1924; the first mortgage is of long term.

"Very conservative estimates of the railroad commission place the present worth of the plant today at $423,000, which leaves a balance of $166,500 as the city's equity, an equity much more than when the city took over the company.

Take Up Second Mortgage. "As a rule it is difficult to market third mortgage certificates, but in the case of Janesville's water plant, financiers have assured us there will be little difficulty in selling them. However, it is impossible to sell fourth, fifth, or sixth mortgages.

"For this reason we asked authority to issue third mortgage certificates up to $500,000 to be issued as needed up until August, 1924, when we hope to take up the second and third mortgages and re-issue all certificates as second mortgage ones.

"The order gives the city power to issue $150,000 in 1920 and $100,000 each year thereafter up to 1924. If more than the stated yearly amount is wanted in one year, application must be made to the railroad commission."

RELATIVES OF DEAD EX-SOLDIER FOUND AFTER LONG SEARCH

A three-day search by the police and Red Cross for relatives of Earl Ballard, ex-soldier killed in 49-foot fall from the Samson Tractor foundry, ended today with the receipt by Chief Morrissey of a telegram from Ballard's family at Longmont, Colo., 40 miles north of Denver. The message, signed by R. E. Ballard, probably the dead man's father, asked that the body be returned to him for burial here Saturday as he expects to arrive here that day.

It was Ballard's discharge from the army which brought about the location of his family. The war department was able to furnish his father's address.

The search for his friends began Monday night when a dying message was sent to Miss Veta Lowe, Kansas City, to whom the young man had written a letter. A reply received from her today by Chief Morrissey contained the information that Ballard was a mere acquaintance, not a relative, and that he thought his father lived in New York city; that his name was Donovan.

POSTPONE MEETING. Members of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce postponed their meeting scheduled for 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

TO WAUKESHA. George Hoyt, gassed overseas soldier, was ordered recommitment to the federal hospital at Waukesha by Judge Maxfield today. He spent some time there but left. He is declared to be unable to work, being subject to fits.

LOOKIN' ROUND. LAY PLANS TONIGHT. To formulate final plans for the observation of Memorial Day, a meeting has been called, to be held at the Gazette office at 8 o'clock tonight, of special committees of the G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans, American Legion, and Rank and File.

TAKE EXAMINATIONS. Rural school children write on diploma examinations at the court house today. The exams will be given tomorrow also with Supt. O. D. Antistiel and his serving teachers, Misses Jennie Dean and Harriet Bill in charge.

SPEED MOTORCYCLE HERE—BUT WITHOUT SPEEDOMETER ON IT. The long-awaited Henderson motorcycle for Tom Kersch, speed officer, has arrived—that is, part of it has—the side-car and speedometer are missing links. Mayor Welsh has issued an order that until the speedometer arrives the machine be kept locked up.

It is used to try to arrest a speeder if you haven't a speedometer to prove how fast he was going," the mayor said.

The machine was driven overland from Beloit by King. It was shipped from Chicago to the Henderson agency in the Line city.

Janesville's New Fire Truck

The $11,000 American-La France fire truck ordered by the council last December arrived in Janesville today from the factory at Birmir, N. Y. It is the last word in modern motor driven fire apparatus. The truck is on a C. & N. W. track not to be unloaded until a representative of the company arrives from Chicago either tonight or tomorrow morning. Chief Con J. Murphy announces that the new truck will be housed at the West Side station in place of the present American-La France truck there which will be housed at Spring Brook station. The old Mitchell truck now at Spring Brook will be moved to West Side and be used as an emergency outfit. This will give the city a modern and powerful truck in each of its three stations.

Flower Fund, for Soldier Dead, Grows

Janesville holds in sacred gratitude the memories of those boys who gave their lives for the salvation of humanity in World War.

On this Memorial day of 1920, while "in Flanders fields the poppies blow beneath the pale yellow sky," there will be other flowers on the mounds of earth and sod which lie in peace our boys died for flag and God. Roses of a sister republic will waft sweet odors, making their hearts of a grateful city.

The Gazette will collect and report the amount daily, commencing tomorrow. The Gazette will collect and report the amount daily, commencing tomorrow.

FREIGHT CONDITIONS ARE NEARLY NORMAL

"The railway freight condition in Chicago was practically normal yesterday and locally the movement has been most gratifying," declared Alva H. Henson, general manager of the Northwestern line today. It was in Chicago yesterday on company business.

The Northwestern, he said, is moving practically everything west and north from Chicago. "The east still continues to feel the effects of the insurgent yardmen's strike and embargoes are still effective."

U. S. permits, similar in nature to those during the winter coal strike, are necessary before shipments can be made to the west.

Recent government orders directing the return of empty cars to owing roads is causing some confusion at present. It is the desire of the interstate commerce commission and the first move towards eliminating the congestion of the roads in the east.

The west is demanding lots of cars for movement of grain to elevators for storage, Mr. Henson said.

WOOD, LOWDEN, COX AND MCADOO ARE EPISCOPALIANS

Two Gazette readers are concerned about the religious tendencies of proposed candidates for president. Frederick J. Haskin, of the Janesville Daily Gazette information bureau at Washington classifies the possible candidates as follows: William Gibbs McAdoo, Episcopalian; Gov. Frank O. Lowden, Presbyterian; Gen. Fox, Episcopalian; Gen. Leonard Wood, Episcopalian; Herbert Hoover, Quaker; Senator Foldsinger, Presbyterian; Senator Harding, Baptist. Readers are also asking for biographies of these men.

ALL EXPENSE—NO PROFIT

Would you be willing to run a business in which there was no profit?

Would you be willing to work hard, day in and day out, year after year—if the expenses of the business were as large as the income and you had nothing left?

In a sense, that is what some of us are doing. Our living expenses are as large as our income. The "business of living" takes all we earn.

But the trouble too many times is that we are careless about expenses. We spend so much that we do not have to spend. We pay high prices without complaint. We are not THRIFTY.

If you want to gain in wealth you will have to be wise in your spending as well as ambitious in your earning—otherwise you will have no money to save.

What we need is THRIFT, more THRIFT and still more THRIFT in this country. Are you willing to adopt the thrift program?

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Address Dr. Wm. Brady, Gazette.

BRAINS SHOW IN THE FEET

A woman with brains naturally likes to look well and it is her duty to keep herself looking her best. A regular girl likes to dress like a regular girl.

A little school teacher whose annual income is not far from $1,000 purchased a fur coat for $350. She paid one-half down, and will pay the balance monthly. But the coat is costing her more than she thinks; it has frightened all thoughts of marriage away from a certain fine young man. She is making thousands of old maid mourn, if they only knew it.

We're queer people. When we are desperately poor we endeavor to appear in comfortable circumstances. When we have a little spirit of good fortune we yearn to make such a use of it as we imagine should be made by the well-to-do. If we actually achieve wealth and get used to it, then we cease bothering so much about appearances and wear what we please.

The Y. W. C. A. War Book Council—notwithstanding its rather obnoxious title—has launched a commendable campaign for conservation of women's feet, and I may add women's good nature and good looks, not to mention good health. Certain features which physicians and orthopedic surgeons have long urged upon the shoe manufacturers, but mostly in vain, are insisted upon by the Y. W. C. A. folks, and at last it is possible for girls and women to find in every good shoe some various makes of shoes conforming to the standards approved by the Y. W. C. A. Customers should ask for such shoes.

The important features of these shoes are straight inside sole lines; moderately roomy rounded toes; moderately low broad heels. The shoes are neat and attractive on any woman's feet. Every woman will find them appropriate for every business wear. Indeed, women with brains and regular girls have been wearing just such hygienic shoes these several years. There are appropriate occasions for the highest and narrowest of French heels, just as there are occasions for other appurtenances of evening attire. But the female who ventures to wear such things on the street betrays a sad deficiency in the domestic virtues.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ice Water. Is it harmful or dangerous for a man to drink too much cold water when he is working? Very hot, and sweating freely? (M. R. H.)

ANSWER.—It is harmful and dangerous to drink ice water or water too cold at any time and under any circumstances. Water should be cool enough to be grateful, but not cold enough to chill. One working very hard in a very warm place or in very warm weather and sweating freely must have large quantities of water, and can hardly drink too much of reasonably cool water. If water too cold is taken it may produce a form of shock (perhaps affecting the solar plexus) or cramps.

Answer to Margaret. 1. No. 2. No. It is not modesty but a very unbecoming imitation thereof that prompts you to take your peculiar view.

Pore Physiology. Is there any truth in the report that sulphur and molasses opens the pores of the skin and one can catch cold if taken in cold weather? Also is it possible to take cold from getting your hair cut in cold weather? (J. J. F.)

ANSWER.—Sulphur and molasses taken internally have but one effect—laxative. To take it in any season or weather, if I thought I required a laxative, I'd take it in any season or weather. It is impossible to take cold from getting your hair cut in cold weather.

Chlorine in the Water. Does the chlorine used for disinfecting municipal water supplies affect the blood of persons drinking the water? (B. B.)

ANSWER.—No. The infinitesimal amount of chlorine in the water has no appreciable influence on the system, and it makes the water safe to drink.

Heart and Home Problems

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Case of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I don't know why it is, but everywhere I look some married man falls in love with me. I am not the kind of girl you will think I do not rouge or wear loud clothing and I do absolutely nothing to encourage the men. Perhaps my great curse is being pretty. I don't want to brag, but I must confess I am blessed or cursed with what my friends call beauty.

Four times within a year I have changed my position because some married man has loved me. Now I find the same condition, only this time it is not my employer. I really don't know what to do because I do not want to stay where I will ruin another person's happiness.

What would you advise? (M. K. L.)

As long as you are not working for the man you can disregard his attentions until he becomes discouraged. I believe you will find that without any encouragement on your part his infatuation will soon die.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please print the recipe on a good shampoo? Now that the weather is good I would like to shampoo my hair myself.

SPRING. Dissolve half a cake of white floating soap in a quart of boiling water. Let it simmer half an hour over a slow fire. Dissolve a tablespoon of washing soda in a quart of boiling water. Add it to the soap mixture. Stir together and let cool. Use with shampoo. Rinse the hair always in four or five clear waters after using a shampoo mixture.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I loaned my girl friend a dollar and a half and she has forgotten to give it back. She borrowed the money over a month ago and said she would return it the next day. Shall I ask her for it? (MARY T.)

Yes, tell her that you need the money.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am nearly crazy with worry about a sick child. When she was two years old she had infantile paralysis and came out remarkably well, it seemed, but she has never been strong since.

She is an only child and so my husband and I have not had the heart to cross her in any way. She has held the upper hand right along and we have completely lost control of her. Last winter she had an attack of fever which left her with a weak heart. The doctor says she must take afternoon naps and eat special foods which will give her proper nourishment.

We simply cannot make her eat what she should. It is a great trial to prepare some special thing and then throw it aside and cook something else. It is also hard to see her getting thinner instead of better because she will not rest.

What can we do with such a child? I am sure she would not act so if she were not sick and therefore we really cannot punish her. She is eight years old now.

A MOTHER. You are doing your child a positive injury by letting her have her own way. The more you give in to her the poorer her health will be. Do not humor her about her meals. Give her what the doctor says she should have and if she refuses to eat, let her go without. Before many days she will take what you give her and not fuss. Discipline cannot be done half way. Make up your mind what is the right thing to do and stick to it no matter how long it takes to win your point. It is merely a question of which one has the stronger will.

If she will not take naps, do not let her play with her friends. By depriving her long enough you can win your point.

It is a fine discipline to give up for a week or more. If she has some luxury which may not be harmful in itself but which is becoming too much of a necessity in our lives.

Vital strength in man is the greatest sustenance of his body, and the greater it is the less will he be afflicted by disease.

Ancient Rome forbade marriage by women of more than 50 years old.

ACCORDIAN PLEATS

VOGUE FOR SPRING

By ELOISE.

The one-piece frock, although not as popular as it was last season, is still shown to some extent for early spring wear. Especially are the shops featuring the one-piece frock for street and trotteur wear. Of course, there will be almost as great a number of one-piece wash frocks worn during the coming summer as heretofore, but the serge and jersey frocks of last season are slowly giving way to the separate skirt and blouse.

Here is one charming style which bids fair to be popular among the devotees of the one-piece frock. It is fashioned of navy tricot serge. Accordian pleats which are the fashion of the season are featured in both the skirt and the blouse. The sleeves are short and have an attractive cuff of odd design. The angular pockets trim the skirt and the metal thread embroidery trims the blouse. One of the narrowest of narrow tan leather belts marks the waistline.

If who cannot get along without stimulants and strengthening remedies has weakened his vitality and is kept up only artificially.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

By PHILLIPS

JEAN DROPS IN WITH A TALE OF WOE.

Jean came down to my studio again this afternoon and her face was as long as a yard-measure, positively. She had been crying, I could see that, and felt awfully sorry.

At first we talked simple nothingness, such as one engaged girl does to another, and I showed her my portrait of Jeffrey, which she admired, between sniffs and sobs. After that the flood-gate burst.

I let the old girl have her cry out and then she just set down and told me that she had broken off her engagement with Harvey and told him never to come near her again, and all that sort of stuff. I let her rave to her heart's content, never dropping any suggestions, nor taking sides in any way, until she had talked her self out, then I said coolly: "And do you dine with Harvey this evening, Jean, dear?"

She turned on me like a fury and told me I was hideously stupid, for all my pertness, and that she, for one, had enough self-respect to stay certain point, and then she blurted out with a man; furthermore, she was too much of an old maid to allow herself to be tied for life to a man who couldn't and wouldn't see farther than the end of his own nose, or words to that effect. I really admired her outburst tremendously. She seemed once more like the Jean I was accustomed to. But again my feminine intuition told me that but for short hours would elapse before the inevitable re-action would set in. That means the inevitable re-union of two loving souls, of course.

Not to be outclassed, of course, I then told Jean some of my own trials and misgivings, such as mother-in-law, etc., and we had one of those sweetly-bitter hours together that so many women manage to put in.

I went on Jean's shoulder and she on mine. Then we suddenly looked at each other and laughed. "Oh, laugh did us good. It made us realize just how human we were, and how truly desirable. It also made us long for tea, which we proceeded to make and finish with keen relish, I can tell you.

It seems that Harvey has been pulling the possessive male stuff with Jean and she stood it up to a certain point, and then she blurted out with a man; furthermore, she was too much of an old maid to allow herself to be tied for life to a man who couldn't and

Or course she has revolted at last and is suffering terribly now at not seeing Harvey and because of Harvey's quarrel with her. In other words she wants him and doesn't want him!

We artists are a funny lot. I'll say that but we get more of the thrills out of life than the smugly serene people I know. Of course few people understand that, or us, but as long as we are happy in our own peculiar way we are satisfied. The end of a perfect afternoon, spent in rehearsing our mutual woes and wishes, Jean had cheered up considerably. Misery loves company, and I just kept pace with her through the recital. When she left she was actually smiling and humming a little song. But I had much worried about Jean. She will suffer more than I ever will. She hasn't my worldly poise.

The Strange Case of Cavendish

By RANDALL PARRISH
Author of "The Devil's Own,"
"My Lady of the North," Etc.

(Copyright, by Randall Parrish.)

Westcott came back from his musings to this one important question. The answer puzzled him. If that man was dead, why should Beatrice remain at Haskell and insist on Miss La Rue's joining him? And if the man was alive and comatose, what was their present object? Had they decided they were risking too much in permitting him to recover? That something occurred to make them feel it safe to have him out of the way permanently? What connection did Bill have with the gang?

Westcott stared into the fireplace; then the gravity of his face relaxed into a smile. "Things are growing interesting, Jose," he said cheerfully. "If I only knew just which way the cat was about to jump, I could be somewhat helpful. These seemed to be more light than usual across the gulch as I came up—what's going on?"

"They have put on more men, senior—a night shift. Last night I went in our drift clear to the end, and put my ear to the rock. It was far away, but I hear."

"No, senior," and Jose was upon his feet gesticulating. "I was the picket line, strike, strike, strike again. I hear, I know."

"Then they must be running a lateral, hoping to cut across our vein somewhere within their lines."

"And will that give them the right, senior?"

Westcott sat, his head resting on one hand, staring thoughtfully into the dying fire. Here was a threatening combination of forces.

"I am not sure, Jose," he answered slowly. "The mining law is full of quibbles, although, of course, it follows the law. The trouble is, that instead of giving notice of discovery, I have kept it a secret. What if the La Rosta gang push their drift in, and strike that same vein, they will claim original discovery."

"Then they must know," Jose said. "My letters and telegrams sent to Cavendish went wrong, and the news has come back that he is dead. I was too far from our tunnel runs; I was too far to describe it all to Cavendish and send him a message. Now they are driving their tunnel to get in ahead of us."

He picked up the map and turned. At the same instant a sudden red glow flashed in the black of the open window, followed by a sharp report. The bullet whizzed past the flesh, crashed into the lamp in his hand, extinguishing it, then struck something beyond. Westcott dropped the floor, and the radius of dim light thrown by the few embers left in the fireplace, and revolver in hand sought to distinguish the cause of the noise. Falling in this, he crept noiselessly across the floor unclashed the closed door, and emerged into the open air.

Dinner Stories

In an Irish courtesan an old man was called into the witness box, and being confused and somewhat nervous, sighted he went up the stairs that led to the bench instead of those that led to the box. The judge good-naturedly said:

"If you want to be, my good man?"

"Ah, sure, yer worship," was the reply. "I'm an old man now, and mebbe it's all I'm fit for."

The father of the girl is well known as "a very tight old gentleman." When last recently received, he was told that for some time he had been "paying attention" to the daughter, it was the old gentleman who made the first observation:

"Yes, sir; very much, indeed."

"Um—let me see. Can you support her in the state to which she has been accustomed?"

"I can, sir," said the young man, "but I am not mean enough to do it."

Little Sydney had reached the mature age of three and was about to discard petticoats for knickerbockers. The mother had determined to make the occasion a memorable one. The breakfast table was laden with good things when the newly-breeched infant was led into the room.

"Ah!" exclaimed the proud mother, "now you are a little man!"

Sydney was in ecstasies. Displaying his garments to their full advantage, he edged close to his mother and whispered, "Can I call pa Bill now?"

"No, no," said the mother, "not yet. You are a little man now, but you are not a man yet."

"But I am not mean enough to do it," said the young man.

"No, no," said the mother, "not yet. You are a little man now, but you are not a man yet."

A Butterfly Luncheon
Carolyn Sherwin Bailey.
Do you want to entertain the girls in your class before school closes? Is your best friend with you for a visit, and do you want to give a luncheon for her? Then have the daintiest possible table decorations, which means that you will make them with your own hands.

with butterflies in all their colors of garden and field is your material. It may be found in your stationer's shop. Cut out the butterflies, a whole flock of them, and mount them, two of them, back to back, on thin white paper, placing them under a weight to keep their shape.

Suspend them from the lighting fixtures by silk threads to match their coloring. These threads should be of varying lengths, so that the butterflies will seem poised in the air and will move with every breeze.

For place favors make little baskets of light weight cardboard, nine inches square, divided into nine smaller squares. Cut out the nine squares, curve the remaining sides of the basket, make a few holes and lace it into a cone with narrow ribbon. The handle is a strip of cardboard, ribbon wound around and fastened with tiny fasteners. Line with crepe paper, full enough so that you can ruffle it out over the edge. At each end of the handle, make a loop to catch one of the butterflies as it tucks into a polished table, for you will use dollies.

And how the girls will exclaim when they see how pretty it all is!

BILLY WHISKERS

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY
In half an hour the ship with the Kids and Bessy on board had been tied to the dock, the gangplank pushed out, and the two kids had skipped. But poor Bessy could not get away to save her life; there were so many watching her all the time, and she had to endure the agony of seeing the kids high upon a bluff overlooking the harbor, eating the sweet grass she so much longed for.

"Never mind," she said to herself, "I will get away yet, when they are all in the cabin eating dinner." This she kept saying to herself, as she pulled at her rope and walked up

While she had been trying to get loose, the vessel, all unknown to her, had drifted quietly out of the harbor, and when she looked up she saw her coveted hills of grass fading from her view. This was too great a disappointment to be endured, and without a second thought, she jumped over the side of the vessel into the water. But horror of horrors! what was the matter? For swim as hard as she could she made no headway, for the rope did not break, and she had expected it to and she found herself tied to the ship.

One of the sailors had seen her jump over, and he called to the captain, and soon all heads were on deck looking at her as she swam at the end of the rope, making futile plunges in her wild endeavor to break it and swim to the shore.

The captain said, "Bring me a rope with a lasso and we will pull her up on deck again, as I have seen them load cattle in South America."

When he got the rope he threw it over her horns, and passing the other end over a pulley, they soon pulled water, and left her a wiser but a sadder cow, chewing a bunch of hay instead of the green grass she had so longed for.

At this time the two kids had stood on the bluff watching the vessel sail away with their old friend on board. From the top of the hill they saw the poor cow endeavor to get away and her failure, and they, too, almost cried with disappointment when the rope did not break and let her loose.

(Tomorrow—the kids on shore again.)

BRITISHER WANTS TO KNOW WHAT'S COMING

London, May 20.—In the house of commons today Sir Donald Maclean, national liberal, demanded of the government what Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, chief of the imperial staff, meant, when in a recent speech he advised the men of the British forces to "keep themselves fit for the time that is coming."

Amid cries of "hear," Sir Donald continued: "Who are we going to fight at no distant date? Is it America or is it Russia?"

Winston Spencer Churchill, war minister, intervened. He stated that Great Britain had enormous obligations in Constantinople, Ireland, Mesopotamia, Palestine, and Egypt.

CARNIVAL TO SHOW HERE NEXT MONTH

The World's Fair carnival which showed here last year may come to Janesville next month. It was learned at the city hall today. Advance agents of the company are here seeking a site for the shows and if successful will apply for a license.

Columbus—Attorney General Price filed a petition in supreme court alleging the transfer of the Columbus Savings and Trust building was to profit in realty.

BIG INCREASE IN PHONE RATES ASKED

(Continued from Page 1.) have had it been receiving adequate rates for a number of years. That the great increases in cost of labor and material have made it impossible for the company to longer pay a reasonable dividend even with its present low depreciation reserve of $3,500 a year.

The petition goes on to explain with figures that the local exchange of the Wisconsin Telephone company has for many years been operated at a loss claiming the sole reason to be for the purpose of consolidating the home company to operate at a loss and thereby be compelled to sell out or consolidate with the Wisconsin company.

Would Increase Monopoly. It is charged that the Wisconsin company agreed in 1918 to apply for a 25 per cent increase in rates, but that the management now refuses to carry out these arrangements. Claims are made, further, that "the rates of the Wisconsin company in other cities are higher than in Janesville and that said company or its parent company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, makes up the Janesville loss in other cities. That if the two local exchanges were forced to consolidate it would increase the monopoly of the telephone business in Wisconsin and injure Janesville subscribers."

Competing With G. M. Another paragraph contains the following: "That the expense of operating telephone companies in Janesville is greater at present than in any place in Wisconsin or in any other place west of Lake Michigan, for the reason that the General Motors corporation, one of the largest manufacturing concerns in the world, has established a large plant in Janesville and has hired and is hiring electricians and other employees of this company, or persons who would make suitable employees for telephone companies, at wages which said General Motors is obliged to pay. That in consequence the telephone companies in Janesville are obliged to and do compete in the market with the General Motors company for labor of all kinds."

The petition is signed by F. H. Howe, president of the company. Attached is a balance sheet and in the gross income to be $15,140 from which deduction of a total of $13,870 was made for dividends and accrued interest leaving a balance of $1,270. Total assets at the end of the year were $224,540.

THE TRIP TO DAVENPORT

A Thrilling Episode in Several Reels with an All-Star Cast Headed by Meriton Fish and R. D. Harmon. Don't Miss It!

In its modest appearance in the personal column this is about the paragraph that would have told the story.

Meriton R. Fish, president of the Bank of Southern Wisconsin, and Manager Ralph D. Harmon, of the Chamber of Commerce, motored to and spent the week-end at Davenport, Ia.

Then again there's the way in which the police and accident reporter might publish the story, tales of speeding auto, the turnover, and all the trimmings of a miraculous escape.

Behind every person in the column there's always an item of news. Some people don't realize it and give only the bare fact of a going or coming.

Hence it was that the fact that the party returned by train found the reporter more than the passenger interest of a couple of lines.

It took a lot of work to get the facts. But getting them apart and obtaining a version from each, a pretty fair story can be pieced together.

It's a tale of adventure more thrilling than the movies. Likewise the cost of the basis for the excitement was thrilling, to mention nothing of a series of accidents which would keep the audience—could they have had one—on their toes and the edge of the seats throughout.

The First Stop
Anyway, Mr. Fish and Mr. Harmon left Janesville a la Quick for Davenport at 2 p. m. Saturday. The exact waving of arms and pointing by passengers on an interurban car two miles south of the city caused their first stop. Inspection found the spare tire holder loose to the extent that the attachment, tire and all, was attempting to jump through the back window.

That was fixed. On the outskirts of Beloit there was something else wrong. It proved to be a broken valve spring. They were delayed an hour in a Lino city garage.

Down near Rockford they stopped to ask a farmer about the roads. "You can't get through Davenport in less than eight hours," he reckoned. "Cause the roads are rotten from here on," he explained. "Ain't been over them in two months, but the rains has made them bad. All full of ruts and mud holes."

But the tourists started through. Instead of bad roads they found them hard as macadam and excellent for travel.

They were on the Lincoln Highway two miles out of Sterling when something else went wrong. There was a bounding and a cracking as bad as a flatwheeled dilapidated traction contraption trying to make Milwaukee street hill.

"I guess she's lost all her stomach," shouted Harmon.

"Yes; something's got a divorce from something," replied Fish. They toned down at the time they were breezing along at 62—it was a downhill paved speedway.

Stop No. 3
Inspection revealed a burned out bearing. That was at 8 o'clock. A garage man hovered around and had the bearing fixed at midnight. Davenport was but 63 miles away.

They were off again. At 1:55 the lights of Erie, Ill., staged a fadeout on the road. The engine was humming and although the night was cool there were visions of that nice warm room and the billyow bed at the Black Hawk at Davenport.

Then something happened. When the machine stopped it was down a five-foot embankment and leaning at a 45-degree angle against the side of a ditch full of water.

The steering knuckle had thrown its bolt.

It was just 2 a. m. From the back of Fish's chair and their luggage, Harmon was able to derick Fish to the top of the car, first extricating himself from beneath the plie, the banker included.

Help! Help! No Help in Sight
A Hillside Locomotive, who it was afterwards learned, also conducts a garage, came by in his car, just taking his girl home from a dance. But he was too, true and honest, but he thought he'd better keep on going. What the Janesville autoists thought they failed to express to our investigator.

There they were, seated atop a big limousine tipping at a dangerous angle in a quagmire of water. There was no help.

After traveling three blocks of the business district and failing to discover the guardian of the peace and dignity of the Illinois hamlet the Chamber of Commerce manager thought he would arouse somebody if he started kicking at doors of banks and business houses. But after five minutes of this he gave it up.

Body awake in the hotel, either. So he went upstairs. In the first room he entered he turned on the light.

Hurried out.

Another Walk to Town
Fortunately he hit on the room of the proprietor next. The latter, a disheveled machine of the vintage 1905 rushed up to the car.

The Ford ran out of gas just as the scene of the accident was reached. Harmon asked back to town. He got a six cylinder Bush.

The Bush backed into position to pull out the Buick and got too near the ditch then.

Again Harmon walked to town. This time he got a team. They hitched it to the Bush and pulled it out. They tried the same trick on the Buick, without success. Even in tandem with the Bush the Buick could not be moved.

Tractor to Rescue
A farmer came along and offered the use of a black and tackle. On the first attempt they pulled clean from the soggy ground the telephone pole to which they had hitched their chains. The next attempt pulled the tractor ring from a pulley. It was repaired, but there was no moving the Buick. It was there and there to stay despite the efforts of the gathering of the community, horses, the Bush, and the block and tackle. There was only one recourse. This was a big tractor a fellow had back at Erie. Again Harmon went to town—but this time in the Bush. The rest went with him. It was 6 a. m. and everybody was mighty hungry.

After a hearty and appetizing meal, the wrecking crew, with their savior, the tractor, went back.

The first two attempts to dislodge the car backwards failed. On the second try from the front the chain snapped with a report like a shot. A handy farmer boy repaired it with a section of barbed wire cut from a fence. After the repairs the big machine was gradually eased to the road.

They were finally on their way to Davenport. At Moline, however, the tire attachment on the rear started acting up again. Another stop was necessary. Davenport was reached in the afternoon. They had been on the road 22 hours and without sleep.

This Good Looking Young Woman Uses Old Time Recipe of Buttermilk Cream in a New Way—A Gentle Skincare with Fine Results—Retarding All That Is Necessary.

Buttermilk and Cream—Simple Remedies Best—Keeps Face Hands and Arms in Excellent Condition—Soft, Smooth and Beautiful.

The old-time application of Buttermilk and Cream to whiten and preserve the skin and remove little wrinkles and use by the lawless is grandmother's recipe and women throughout the country are again using it to ensure a beautiful complexion and snow-white hands and arms.

Buttermilk, however, is not always obtained but a specialty has at last perfected a method of concentrating buttermilk and combining it with a perfect cream which you can buy in small quantities ready to use at any first class drug store by simply asking for "Howards' Buttermilk Cream."

There is no secret about it nor is there any with about the result—just a common ordinary buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream gently massaged with the fingertips around the corners of the eyes and mouth.

To get the best effect be sure to follow the simple directions. Drug-gists guarantee a noticeable improvement after the first application or they will refund the money.

How Much Is Comfort Worth in Zero Weather?

FLAXLINUM

Keeps the House Warm in Winter—Cool in Summer—Save 1-3 of Coal Bill

WHAT wouldn't you have given during the long cold spell last winter to get the house warm, and keep it so?

Winter comfort isn't a matter of throwing coal into the furnace. Keeping out the cold and holding in the heat is what really makes you comfortable. This gives the furnace a chance.

That's just what Flaxlinum does—has been doing for nine years for home-owners in the coldest regions in the country. It is interesting, too, to note that in all these years every Flaxlinum user has been thoroughly satisfied.

Flaxlinum built into the walls and roof prevents the passage of heat and cold. It "insulates" the walls and roof—applies to home-building the principle on which refrigerators, cold storage houses, etc., are built.

Since the cold cannot come in through walls and roof, nor the heat seep out through them, it doesn't require so much coal to keep the house warm. Flaxlinum users say they save 30% to 40%. Pretty big saving at the present price of coal. Only takes a few winters to pay for the Flaxlinum; and the savings go right on paying big dividends on your investment.

If you will stop to analyze it, we think you will agree

Flaxlinum
TRADE MARK REGISTERED

FLAXLINUM INSULATING CO., St. Paul, Minn.
(Formerly known as Northern Insulating Co.)

It's Cheaper to Build a Warm House than to Heat a Cold One that you cannot make a better investment—in comfort and economy—than to put Flaxlinum in the walls and roof of your new home.

Flaxlinum is made to conform to standard house construction. No special construction of any kind is needed. For side walls it is flanged to fit between the studdings, as shown in detail above; and for roof insulation it comes in flat sheets that fit over the rafters. You can use Flaxlinum if the plans for your house are drawn, or even if the framework is already up; To give you an idea of the insulation value of Flaxlinum, a layer of Flaxlinum 1-2 inch thick, as it is ordinarily used, is equivalent in heat and cold resistance to thirty thicknesses of building paper, or four solid inches of back plaster. For stucco houses FLAXLINUM KEYBOARD gives you the insulating efficiency of Flaxlinum in a strong, rigid, permanent stucco base.

Flaxlinum Products are sold by leading building material dealers everywhere. They are specified by architects and endorsed by contractors. If you do not know the name of a Flaxlinum-dealer in your vicinity, write us.

MARKETS

TELEPHONE MARKET SERVICE. The following are the quotations for the week ending May 19, 1920, as furnished by the Bureau of Market Statistics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

GRAIN

Chicago Review. The corn market continued today, although liquidation on the part of holders appears to have diminished. Credit difficulties and the strenuous efforts of railroads to furnish cars, other than there was more disposition apparent to the call in trying to obtain further radical declines. Opening quotations, which ranged from 1.10 to 1.12, and September 1.15 to 1.17, were followed by a moderate recovery. After opening at 1.10 1/2, the market advanced to 1.11 1/2, and then began to recover. Provisions, like grain, tended downward.

Forstall commission house buying. together with wet weather and talk of removal of export demand for breadstuffs, led subsequently to a sharp advance in corn prices. The market was 1/2 cent higher, with July 1.17 1/2 and September 1.18 1/2.

CORN GROWERS TO HOLD STATE CONTEST

Madison—Who will be the corn champion of Wisconsin for 1920? It took 120 bushels of Golden Glow to win the contest, the annual two-acre corn growing contest held by the members of the Wisconsin Experiment station last year.

FOODSTUFF PRICES
INCREASED IN APRIL
STATISTICS SHOW

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, May 20.—Coincident with additional reports of nation wide price cutting, the department of labor's bureau of labor statistics announced today that foodstuff prices had increased in April.

Reports from retailers in 51 cities, the bureau said, showed that in April food prices had risen 1.1 per cent, the greatest increase of any month since April, 1915.

The contest is open only to members of the state experiment association, who must enter the contest by June 1.

Entry must be made by June 15. The contest may grow just two acres, or he may select any two acres in a field to compete in the contest.

The rules for determining the yield will be given later.

The secretary of the experiment association will arrange with the contestants for a committee within the county to see that the rules of the contest are properly followed.

The contest is open to all members of the state experiment association.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schultz were Milwaukee visitors the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hookstead returned from their company from Avalon last week.

George Hookstead expects to write diploma examinations at Lima after this week.

In December, 1865, Solomon Channell and his son, John, who had been living in the south of London, organized the first lodge of Odd Fellows in New York City, No. 1, and at initial meeting had only five members. Three years later, in 1868, it had been established in New York
